An atypical teratoid rhabdoid tumor (AT/RT) is a rare tumor usually diagnosed in childhood. Although usually a brain tumor, AT/RT can occur anywhere in the central nervous system (CNS), including the spinal cord. About 60% will be in the posterior cranial fossa (particularly the cerebellum). One review estimated 52% in the posterior fossa, 39% are supratentorial primitive neuroectodermal tumors ...

A brain metastasis is a cancer that has metastasized (spread) to the brain from another location in the body and is therefore considered a secondary brain tumor. The metastasis typically shares a cancer cell type with the original site of the cancer. Metastasis is the most common cause of brain cancer, with primary tumors that originate in the brain being less common.

The inclusion of other tumor markers may further increase the specificity of screening. Einhorn et al. evaluated CA125 concentrations together with those of CA15-3 and TAG-72 in 219 patients undergoing diagnostic laparotomy for pelvic masses. They found that the three tumor markers increased the specificity for detecting ovarian cancer but reduced the sensitivity of the CA125 assay [1].

The migration of membrane receptors upon exposure to different stimulants/inhibitors is of great importance. Among others, the internalization of membrane receptors affects their accessibility to ligands and cell responsiveness to environmental cues. Experimentally, receptor internalization can be used as a measure of their activation. In our studies, we employed this approach to explore cross ...
